ST. CHARLES – The 80-year-old Blue Goose Super Market will conduct a groundbreaking ceremony for its new building at 11 a.m. today at the corner of Second and Indiana streets.

The site is the fourth for the Blue Goose, which is owned and operated by the third generation of founder Nancy Lecioni's family.

St. Charles Mayor Don DeWitte is expected to attend the groundbreaking, which will be followed by a picnic lunch in the parking lot of the existing Blue Goose store, at 164 S. First St.
